The Blue Sage Band - A New Take on Folk & Bluegrass Music

Ogden, Utah. -- December 8, 2005 -- The Blue Sage Band will be presenting an evening of high energy acoustic bluegrass, folk and cowboy/western music at the Junction Theater on December fifteenth.

The music of Blue Sage revolves around the baritone voice and contemporary clawhammer banjo stylings of Mike Iverson and features some of Utah's finest musicians. Band members include Mike Iverson on banjo and guitar, Shauna Iverson on upright bass, with Rob Ricks and Heather Blaisdell on twin fiddles. The Blue Sage sound is unique, which prompted Marvin O'Dell, the host of the internet radio program 'Around The Campfire', to write:

"I love the simple instrumentation. You (Blue Sage) make a banjo and fiddle work together better than anyone I've ever heard - and there's nothing "showy" about it. This is outstanding material"

Don't miss this opportunity to experience this new interpretation of folk, bluegrass and western music as performed by the Blue Sage Band!

The doors will open at 6:30 with the actual performance beginning at 7:30. The Jackson Street Junction is located at the corner of 23rd and Jackson. The price of admission is $7.00 in advance $8.00 at the door.
